PREVENTION OF TYPHOID FEVER.

Rules Telling How to Avoid the Fatal Disease Issued by the State Board of Health.

The State Board of health has issued a circular in regard to the prevention of typhoid fever. The fever season is now approaching, and the following rules have been prepared by Dr. J. M. Mathews, President, and Dr. J. N. McCormack, Secretary:

This Board again feels it to be a duty to call the earnest attention of our health authorities and people to the increasing prevalence and mortality from typhoid fever and to the consequent growing importance of the constant use of the methods endorsed and confirmed by scientific researches and observation for the prevention of the disease. 13,806 cases of this disease and 1,579 deaths were reported in Kentucky last year, chiefly confined to people in the prime of life and usefulness. The cost of caring for those sick of it, to say nothing of the sorrow, suffering and loss of life, for the year, is reported as being $969,750.

Typhoid fever is probably the most preventable of all diseases, not even excepting smallpox. It is now definitely known, that, like cholera and dysentery, the germs of the disease are contained only in the discharges from the bowels and kidneys of those sick of it, and that it is necessary for a person to swallow some of the discharges, or things polluted by them, in some way, in order to contract the disease. They usually gain entrance to the system through infected water from wells or streams draining inhabited areas, and polluted by infected fecal matter, or such matter may be carried by flies and deposited on the food, utensils and hands in unsanitary kitchens and diningrooms. The germs may also be carried on the hands of careless attendants, or on soiled clothing, or indirectly, by using milk or other articles of uncooked food or drink from cans and vessels washed in infected water. Ice from infected water is also dangerous, as it has been proven that freezing does not kill the germs. A large volume of water may be infected from one case, and, if already polluted with organic matter, becomes a ready culture fund for the multiplication of the germs. In the now noted epidemic at Plymouth, Pennsylvania, involving the sickness of 1,104 persons, and the death of 114, the outbreak was traced to the use of water from a stream infected by the discharges from one imported case. The recent disastrous epidemic at Ithaca, New York, causing many deaths, and requiring the suspension of Cornell University, was traced to the use of a public water supply similarly infected.

On the other hand, in the distressing and fatal epidemic which clung to our military camps at Chickamauga, Camp Mead, Montauk Point and other places, during the Spanish-American war, flies were found to be the principal carriers of the disease by the United States Commission appointed to investigate the origin of the outbreaks. By the use of white powder sprinkled over the discharges in the latrines, thousands of these pests were tracked direct from these and found covering the food, hands and utensils in the kitchen and mess rooms of the common soldiers. Cultures taken from the feet, legs, bills and intestines of these flies showed the germs of typhoid fever in countless numbers. The kitchens and mess rooms of the officers were screened, and they almost uniformly escaped the disease. Other facts no less convincing as to both water and flies being carriers of this disease might be multiplied indefinitely, if space permitted. In a smaller way, they must be common in the experience of most physicians in active practice.

Based upon the teachings of the foregoing facts, the following rules have been prepared with care for the guidance of all persons interested in their own and the public health:

1. When it is known or suspected that a person has typhoid fever he should be placed in a large, well ventilated room, with the windows and doors well screened, and such preparation should be made from the first day for the thorough and systematic disinfection of all discharges from the bowels and kidneys as will protect other members of the family, the attendants and the community.

2. A solution of chloride of lime, eight ounces to the gallon of water, should be provided in quantity, and a quart of this should be put in the bed pan or vessel each time before it receives the discharges, and should be well stirred and allowed to stand in the vessel at least an hour before it is buried. An equivalent solution of creolin, or a thick whitewash made from the fresh quicklime, may be used in the same way when the chloride

Why SO WEAK? Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Mt. Sterling People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Mt. Sterling testimony to prove it: Samuel T. Green, of Holt Ave., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills were worth their weight in gold to me. That is my opinion and the following are my reasons. For a good many years I suffered with kidney trouble brought on I believe, by straining myself at heavy lifting. The dull aching across the small of my back and the sharp pains if I stood or straightened, made life any thing but pleasant to me. This was also a very annoying and distressing urinary difficulty particularly observable at night. I took all kinds of medicine supposed to be good for kidney trouble, and doctor after doctor, but without obtaining any noticeable benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. The change the first box made in my condition was surprising and I continued the treatment by taking another, when all symptoms of disordered kidneys disappeared and I felt myself cured."

of lime cannot be obtained, but with these at least two hours will be required to complete the disinfection.

3. Soiled bed or body linen should remain in the chloride of lime solution for a hour and may then be safely put in the family wash. Soiled paper or clothes used about the patient should be immediately burned. Attendants should wash the hands frequently and the lips, and rinse the mouth always before eating. No one should partake of any food which has stood in the sick room. All of these precautions should be continued until the recovery is complete and until all diarrhoea has ceased.

"Typhoid fever is not contagious in the sense commonly understood, and if the precautions above indicated are faithfully and intelligently carried out, a case may be treated in any family or community with perfect safety. If others have the disease, it will be because they were infected from the same source as the patient, or contracted it elsewhere. The same precautions should be observed in dysentery and all other diarrhoeal diseases, including summer complaint in children.

4. All well water and unfiltered water from rivers draining inhabited areas, where typhoid fever and diarrhoeal diseases are likely to occur at any time, and milk stored in cans or vessels washed in such water, should be looked upon as suspicious, and should always be boiled, before it is drunk by anyone not immune from typhoid fever. In the absence of a reliable, filtered, public water supply, carefully collected and properly stored cistern water is the safest.

5. The windows and doors of all dwellings houses, and especially of kitchen and dining room, should always be well screened and the flies actually kept out. Unless this

HOW JAPS KEEP STRONG.

Advocate Readers Can Learn Something of Value From This.

Such a thing as a weakening is hardly known in Japan. The wonderful endurance of the Japanese soldiers and sailors in the recent war has been the marvel of all nations. Both men and women are well, happy and strong.

The reason for this, so careful investigators tell us, is that the Japanese from childhood up know how to keep well through care of the digestive system. If they have trouble with indigestion, heartburn, wind on the stomach, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, head aches, rheumatic pains, back-aches or any of the other troubles caused by a weak stomach, they treat themselves with some of the principal remedies that compose Mi-on-na, a stomach remedy that has already a large sale in Mt. Sterling at W. S. Lloyd's.

So uniformly successful has the remedy been in curing all stomach troubles where it is used in accordance with the simple directions given with each box, that W. S. Lloyd gives a signed guarantee with every 50 cent package to refund the money if Mi-on-na fails to benefit. 6. It is done, a carefully managed case of typhoid fever, or other diarrhoeal disease, even a mile or more away, may be a source of danger on account of flies. As mosquitoes are now known to be the carriers of malaria, the same precaution will protect from this poison also.

The universal and effectual practice of these precautions would require intelligent care and some expense, but would result in the practical disappearance of one of our most common and fatal domestic pests, which is not only a disgrace to our civilization, but an annual scourge and tax upon the people of Kentucky in comparison with which yellow fever and cholera, plague and other exotic diseases so feared by our people sink into insignificance.

Copies of this circular, and of others in regard to the prevention of consumption, diphtheria and scarlet fever, may be had by any one for free distribution upon application to the Board at Bowling Green, Ky.

Great Saddle Horse Premium.

An indication of just how enthusiastic are the breeders of Central Kentucky in making a great success of the Blue Grass Fair is best shown by the way premiums continue to pour in on Secretary Bain.

J. Gano Johnson, of Mt. Sterling, owner of what is described by some as being the largest saddle horse stock farm in the world, has come to the front with an offer of one season to each of his five stallions to be offered as premiums at the Blue Grass Fair. The premiums offered represent a value of about $50 to each stallion.

Pardoned From Life Term.

Mayor Thomas A. Combs, of Lexington, carried to Frankfort a parole for Charles Wall, a prisoner under sentence for life. Wall was convicted and sent to prison in 1900 as an accessory to murder.

The crime was committed in Powell county. Wall with two other men, John Combs and a man named Barnett, were hired to kill John Rose, a brother-in-law of Jim Hall who agreed to pay $1,500 for the commission of the crime. Wall being conscience-stricken, warned Rose's family on same day the crime was committed, but too late to prevent the crime. Upon the trial Jim Hall was acquitted, but the three henchmen were convicted and sentenced for life together with Goodloe Combs, who had employed them.

John Combs died in prison and Goodloe Combs and Barnett were pardoned, leaving Wall alone to suffer for the crime.

Not long ago a petition was presented to the prison authorities by Mayor Combs in behalf of Wall, signed by the wife of the murdered man and many of the leading citizens.

Mayor Combs brought Wall to Lexington and started him to his family in Virginia.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce Judge H. C. McKee as a candidate for Congress in the Tenth District, subject to the action of the Republican party, in convention or otherwise.

MAYOR REVOKES WHISKEY LICENSES.

Recent developments have shown what can be accomplished by a Mayor who is determined to enforce the law which he has sworn to uphold, and who boldly confronts the forces organized for the defiance of the law. It is with much satisfaction and pride that central Kentucky is looking at Mayor Combs of Lexington, because he is enforcing the laws of that city against the sale of whiskey on Sunday, and because he does it now, without waiting for the action of the Circuit Court. He has revoked the licenses of five saloonists. The last to get what he deserves was John Scott, a member of the City Council, who has a saloon on South Broadway. Complaint was made that Scott had sold the whiskey. Mayor Combs ordered him to appear and show cause if he had any reasons why his license should not be cancelled. The Mayor heard the testimony and promptly revoked the license although Mr. Scott objected, saying he did not think the Mayor had such authority.

Mayor Combs with nerve and backbone says:

"I have said that I will enforce the Sunday closing law, or bankrupt the City of Lexington in the attempt, and I now assert that I will have it enforced while I am Mayor if I have to discharge every policeman on the force and appoint new men all through the entire department. In this matter there are no half-way measures. The law must and shall be enforced."

We are still hoping to have opportunity to say that the city officials of Mt. Sterling have determined to enforce the law against illegal sale of whiskey. The law is being enforced in Lexington and it can be done here. Why delay or play with this business longer?

WILL KENTUCKY ALLOW GAMBLING AT STATE FAIR?

The Board of Agriculture, Forestry and Immigration must decide this question before them. "Shall Gambling at State Fair be allowed?" At a meeting in Louisville with this board on last Friday it appeared that an effort was being made to allow the robbing method, gambling, and that by Louisville crowd. It further appears that Louisville fears failure unless their iniquitous and illegal business, if business it may be termed, is permitted.

Kentucky cannot be permitted to go on record as favoring the violation of the laws against gambling any more than she can to favor the violation of the Sunday laws, and if those representing the State cannot see things this way it seems to us there would exist cause for removal.

TO BE SURE.

"If Bryan is elected I will be glad to serve you," says Senator McCreary. Of course you would, all that want to be served, bring with a smile and others with only a wink, for they can not all get there. Too many of you for pie to go all the way around.

GOVERNOR BECKHAM

Has sounded the keynote of his campaign. The Temperance people are greatly pleased with his position and the bold way in which he has declared for the County Unit Bill, and also with what he had to do in securing its passage. It is conceded that the measure would have been killed but for the Governor's labors for it.

The Governor is also making himself strong with the people by demanding that the Sunday laws shall be observed and then carrying this declaration into action. The moral, upright and christian people all uphold him in his work for civic righteousness and are making it manifest by the resolutions they are adopting in their general meetings.

Governor has responded mainly to the appeal of the ministers and the law-abiding citizens of our great metropolis, has given them his aid in putting the "lid on" and well did he know when he did this he would array the power of the political working element of the State against him. Such a man thus regarding the right is deserving of our best endeavors and our support as well.

A CANDIDATE.

Mr. E. A. Gullion of Henry county, former President of the Kentucky Press Association, has announced himself a candidate for State Superintendent of Schools, subject to the action of the Democratic primary. Mr. Gullion is a relative of Mrs. Shuck Whitaker, formerly of this place, knows the duties of the position to which he aspires, having been school teacher and County Superintendent and eminently successful in each. In addition to his capabilities as a practical man, he enjoys the distinction of being a christian gentleman. Mr. Grady, so popular and competent, now the chief clerk of the present incumbent, is to occupy the same position with Mr. Gullion. We would be really glad to have our people to support Mr. Gullion.

WHAT THE WHISKEY MEN SAY.

"The Sunday closing does not cause the liquor dealers anything like the inconvenience that is experienced by the public generally. Since a few fanatics persuaded the Governor and Mayors to adopt this hypocritical pretence of reform, for no better purpose than to secure the votes of that disgruntled class that would not support them in any state of the case."

"Who are the few fanatics? Are they the army of anti-saloon voters? Is the above prediction of whiskey dealers correct? Will the temperance people stand by the Governor and Mayors? We shall see."

SEARCH FOR THE TRUTH.

Because serious charges are being made by leaders of the Democratic factions of Kentucky who are seeking the conferment of honors and responsibilities, which accusations, if true, bring odium and reproach on the character of men, their parties and the State, it follows that it would be wisdom to appoint a committee that shall be free of political environments and ambition, who shall consider the charges made and report the results of their investigations. We make this suggestion because the people care more for the triumph of their principles than they do of men and if one or the other is to be sacrificed let it be men.

LID MUST GO ON.

Several weeks ago the Governor ordered the Mayors of Covington and Newport to put their Sunday lids on, but they were satisfied with just asking the saloon keepers to see that the patrons of the grog shops are good and that order prevails. This does not satisfy Governor Beckham and he will ask the temperance people to join with him in putting the "lids on" and keeping them there.

That the Sunday laws must be observed, the prosecutors will be required to see that all violators of the laws are punished to the limit.

UNIFORM INSURANCE LEGISLATION.

Hon. H. R. Prewitt, State Insurance Commissioner, is attending the meeting of the General Insurance Commissioners at St. Paul, Minn., this week. The object of this meeting will be to agree upon and draft such proposed laws and will cover the insurance interests and redound to the best interests of both the insurer and insured.

Mr. Prewitt stands for the people and will see that the Insurance organization does the fair thing.

PLANS FOR STATE PRIMARY.

Each candidate is entitled to submit a list of election officers to the chairman of each county committee from which precinct election officers will be selected. Each voter shall be required to support his Congressional candidate on that day before voting in the primary. Each candidate knows now what is expected of him and it is believed Democrats will give of her very best now for party nominees.

MAY PACIFY.

Mr. C. B. Morford, lawyer and editor of the Evening Inquirer has announced as a candidate for Congress in the 9th district, subject to the action of the Democratic party. It is believed by friends of Mr. Morford that he may be able to bring together Democratic factions.

ISSUE MADE.

The saloon issue is squarely before the people and is this: Shall they be driven entirely out of the city or shall they be allowed to do business in a certain precinct and make drunkards of sober, happy and reputable men there? The people are now ready to do the voting to wipe out the sale of the stuff in our city. It will then be up to the Court of Appeals to pass on the constitutionality of the question.

WILL SWELL MAJORITIES.

Democrats may dispute a little now and fuss over things much, but they settle their own disputes and November Election will show that the people have had to do with selecting the best men who will vote right and put in all their time in the duties of the office to which they have been elected.

Republican Convention.

At the Republican conventions of the counties of the Tenth Congressional District to name their choice for candidate most of the counties go uninstructed. This county naming Judge H. Clay McKee. The district convention will convene in Pikeville Wednesday the 22nd. It is said Langley, of Washington, D. C., whose reputation precedes him has been importuned by some local politicians to become a candidate. Water seeks its level. Birds of a feather will flock together.

AN AMERICAN STEAM SHOVEL AT WORK AT PANAMA.

This illustration shows one of the several American steam shovels which have been sent to Panama. They are monster machines, capable of performing twice the work done by the older French machines. The one shown here is at work in Culebra cut. Others of the same kind of machines are being erected as rapidly as they can be gotten to the isthmus. The Culebra section is where the largest amount of rock and earth must be removed. Reassembling the task before them and knowing that the French type of shovels would never be able to perform the task, the American engineers had special machines constructed, which are the largest in the world.

WORLD RAILWAY STATISTICS

America Leads the Earth in the Number and Efficiency of Its Avenues of Commerce.

That America leads the world in the number and efficiency of its railroads is of course common knowledge.

At the close of the last century North America had no less than 229,880 miles of track in operation, while the total for Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and South America was only a trifle greater—about 270,000 miles. The United States then had a mile of road for every 383 inhabitants, Europe one for every 2,267, and British India one for every 12,400. This country invented the parlor, sleeping and dining cars, the pressed steel freight car, many of the best features of the modern locomotive, the air brake, the automatic coupler and a host of related devices, and it runs the fastest long distance trains.

One of the most marvelous developments in the whole railroad system is that which has taken place at the head of a train in the last 70 years.

The best locomotives to-day are about four times as long as the De Witt Clinton (1811), a foot or two higher, have drivers that are 72 or even 80 inches in diameter, instead of only 54, and carry 200 pounds of steam instead of only 80. But these figures afford no idea of the real gain that has been effected in power. Relative to the other features, the boiler has grown abnormally, while the smokestack has actually diminished in size. In the De Witt Clinton the smokepipe was as big as the boiler. One does not realize that modern science has done for this type of engine until he is told that it has a pull of from 16 to 30 tons, as against 919 pounds!

A locomotive built not long ago for the Santa Fe road weighed 133½ tons. Trevethick's engine, built just a century ago, weighed five! Stephenson's Rocket (1829) was several pounds lighter. Even between 1850 and 1860 the average weight of a passenger locomotive was 20 tons and of a freight engine 30. At the close of the fiscal year there were in operation in the United States 195,887 miles of track, or within about 25,000 miles of the total for North America.

VALUE OF CHAIRS RELATIVE

One Set Owned by Louis XIV. Brings $100,000 — Were Originally Made for Marie Antoinette.

The value of chairs is strictly relative. Enormous prices have been paid for chairs in recent years, notably $100,000 for a set of half a dozen Louis XIV's chairs, upholstered in Gobelin tapestry, which were originally made for Marie Antoinette. Even this price, by the way, was exceeded by the sums paid for three of the Hamilton Palace tables, one of which brought $30,000.

A most valuable and historically interesting suite of furniture is that which, more than a century ago, was presented by Warren Hastings to Tippon Sahib, and which was purchased at the London bazaar sale for $5,000. The suite consists of a card table, a sofa, two small cabinets, and four arm chairs, all of solid ivory most exquisitely carved. But probably the most costly chair in the world is one of the many treasures of the shah of Persia. It is of solid gold—thickly incrustured with diamonds, rubies, pearls and sapphires, and its value is estimated at half a million pounds. In the house of commons at Westminster are two arm-chairs which once belonged to Gladstone, and one of which was his favorite seat when at Downing street.

A short time ago a romantic story was told in the French papers of two dilapidated arm-chairs which were sold among the effects of a Mme. Berg, a widow, who died at Dellys, an Algerian seaport town. The widow was reputed to be rich, but a thorough search of her rooms failed to disclose any of her hoardings, and it was assumed by her relatives that she had died practically penniless.

Not long after the sale of her furniture, however, it was observed that the purchaser of the chairs, a Spanish stevedore named Perez, ceased to work, began to walk about in fine clothes, to purchase land and houses and generally gave evidence of having come into a fortune. Suspicion being aroused, Perez was arrested, and now stands accused of having appropriated to his own use the old lady's fortune, of at least $20,000, which had been concealed by her in the dilapidated arm-chairs.

How Baboons Dispose of the Aged.

"In certain parts of South Africa," said Thomas Ashbalstone of Johannesburg, "there are baboons which carry into practical operation the doctrines of Dr. Osier. These simians have no earthly use for the aged of their own tribes and when one of their kind gets too old to help himself the rest ostracize him completely, neither tolerating his society nor helping him to sustain life. Never was there an exhibition of such callous and cold blooded indifference as these 'baboons' show to their helpless old. One of our scientists' men who had made a study of this phase of their life told me that in this treatment of the aged by the baboons the theory of Darwin was vindicated, and that there need be no further search of the 'missing link'."

First Church Organ.

April 10 is a memorable date for ecclesiastical musicians, who claim that on this day in 787 King Pepin placed the first organ—which he had procured from the Byzantine emperor—in the Church of St. Cornelius, at Compiègne. It was a pneumatic organ, with leaden pipes, played by an Italian priest, who had taken lessons at Constantinople. But about that time "the king of instruments" was quite familiar to our Saxon ancestors. They bred some clever organ-builders, notably the devil-daunting St. Dunstan, who erected an organ "with brass pipes" made by himself at Malmesbury Abbey, and presented other churches or convents with similar instruments.—Westminster Gazette.

Well Concealed.

Miss Wellon—The impudent thing told me to my face that I was getting old and wrinkled! Miss Tartan—I wouldn't mind it, dear. She didn't say it to your real face, yppknow! She couldn't see that.—Stray Stories.

We make every style of shoe that is worn. That is one reason why we can give you better value for the money in Diamond Brand shoes than is possible in factories making only one kind of shoe.

As we operate five large plants, subdivided into seven specialty factories, every inch of leather can be utilized in some department and we are enabled to grade our leather to produce uniformly the highest quality without waste.

Identifying Them.
Some visitors, going through a penitentiary under the escort of the superintendent, came to a room in which three women were sewing.
"Heur me?" whispered one of the visitors, "what vicious-looking creatures! Urry, what are they here for?"
"Because they have no other home. This is our sitting room, and they are my wife and two daughters," blandly replied the superintendent. — Harper's Weekly.

One Good Turn Deserves Another.
(Office Boy to employer)—Please, sir, will you give me a raise in my wages?
Employer—Yes, my boy. Is there anything else I can do for you?
"You might make my hours shorter, so I'll have time to spend my raise."—Translated for Tales from Fambion Journal.

THE BLUE MOON
Will Shine in Cincinnati During Fall Festival.
First American Production of a London
Musical Success. Big Industrial Show.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22.—The spectacle of "The Blue Moon," which was the marvel of the Cincinnati Fall Festival three years ago, has been doubly eclipsed in the present autumn industrial fete, which is booked for a run from August 22 to September 22. Cincinnati will be the first city on the American continent to see "The Blue Moon." For the first time in theatrical history a great London success has been lifted from the world's metropolis into the States without touching New York. The New York effort only art to see "The Blue Moon" after Cincinnati and the visitors to the Fall Festival have enjoyed the musical spectacular treat which has been London's for over a year's continuous run. This spectacle, played by the Shubert company, given in Music Hall through the courtesy of the Hepp Opera House Company, leaves for Erie Theatre, of Cincinnati, will represent the night the curtain rises on an outlay of $75,000. Music Hall is the largest auditorium in the U. S. A. It seats about 4,000 people. All the scenery for "The Blue Moon" has been specially painted in New York for this Cincinnati production to fit the big Music Hall stage. Over 250 people will be in the cast. James T. Hart, who will be the leading comedian. A pageant in which elephants, camels and horses will be seen will take place in the last act. "The Blue Moon" Cincinnati premier is really a dramatic event that marks a new theatrical epoch.

This London spectacle—dream of catchy music, pretty girls, beautiful costumes and bright comedy—will be the greatest indoor attraction. "Flaming the Flames" holds the rank of leading importance among the attractions outside the Exposition halls. It was Claude Harlow who originated the idea of giving a show value to fire fighting as it is actually done. Fall Festival visitors can sit back in their comfortable chairs and see a big conflagration in perfect safety without fear of falling walls, burst hose or the real thing. "Flaming the Flames" has enticed hundreds of thousands at Luna Park and the White City, and will be a Fall Festival feature of striking interest. Cincinnati is making strenuous efforts to entertain multitudes of visitors during the four weeks of the festival, and every day will be a fete day of some sort or other. Cincinnati is passing the neighborly word, "Come and see us" all along the line. The railroads, awake to the importance of the Fall Festival, have all made special round-trip rates to Cincinnati.

GREAT AWAKENING IN PEKIN
Real Advance Made in Cleaning and Improving the Capital City of China.

A competent authority on things Chinese states that during the last two years China has made more real advancement than in the previous millennium, says the Century. That his judgment is sound is apparent to the point of a residence in Peking. It has long been predicted that changes would be surprising in their speed, but the most sanguine had not hoped for what is taking place.

In passing through Peking, the streets seem to be the most striking phenomenon. Three years ago there seemed little hope that the black mud and the disgusting sights and stench would ever give place to anything better. The board that had been appointed to repair the streets was considered to have an Augean task and was the butt of many facetious remarks. Now the broad thoroughfares are fast being converted into handsome avenues. The central portion, 3 strips of about seven yards in width, is being well macadamized with the rest. Long forgotten sewers have been cleaned on each side by shallow drains of brickwork, a row of trees, an improved strip of five yards in good repair, then a curbed sidewalk of varying width, cleanly cemented with pounded lime and earth. The building line has been straightened, necessitating the rebuilding of many shops the rehabilitation of which is in keeping with the rest. Long forgotten sewers have been cleaned, and places of convenience erected, the use of which is made compulsory. Innumerable unsightly sheds which have occupied half the roadway are being removed, forever. It is hoped, and the authorities have said in other words in which to ply their trades. The new roadways are guarded by uniformed police in their sentry boxes, and kept in order by numerous laborers. Fine telephone poles, strung with countless copper wires, replace the topsy-turvy line of the last few years. The telephone is no longer a curiosity, but is fast becoming a necessity to progressive business men.

Another Germ Friend.
"Do you have your nails manicured?" asked the doctor. "Don't do it. Those little manicurists never sterilize their instruments. Easiest thing I know to get blood disease in that way. I never have mine manicured. I never have a barber shave me, either. Some dread of blood disease. Did you ever hear of a barber who sterilized his razors? Well, I guess not."
"It would be a cold day for barbers and manicurists if every body was like you," his companion remarked, tranquilly, as he walked into the barber shop.

Cause of Marital Unhappiness.
"When marriages are unhappy," said "Mark Twain" in a diary, "it is usually because the husband isn't tender and observant about trifles."
"The husband is too much like the young man who sat singing with great expression: 'I love thee! I love thee! With a love that cannot die! With a love that cannot die!' 'His wife just then came in and said: 'James, I want a scuttle of coal!'
"Oh, go to the dickens," said he."

Still in Love.
"The last time I saw them they behaved as if they were very much in love with each other. Isn't that interesting news?"
"News? Why, man, where have you been all this time? They were married two weeks ago."
"Of course! I know that. The last time I saw them was this morning!"
Only a Suspicion.
"How many languages can your man talk?"
"Ever so many. I suspect him of proposing to me in two or three of them, just to tantalize."

Revised.
"His great boast is that he always says what he thinks."
"Oh! no, you've got that a little twisted."
"Not at all. He told me that himself."
"Perhaps so, but that was before he met Banger. He always thinks what he says now."

Poor Plans to Look.

Bearing Restored By Biting Curs.

At Shelbyville, Ind., Seven years ago, while playing in a sand pile, little Minnie Huffman, then aged six years, got a piece of gravel in her right ear. Physicians failed to extract the stone, and the child gradually lost her hearing on that side. On Aug 6, while at supper, she was biting a crust of bread and something snapped in her ear. The stone fell to the floor and the girl's hearing was instantly restored.

ESCAPED FROM TIGHT PLACE

Willaby Traced Home Could Not Jar Inventive Man Playing Sentimental Game

The young man had ridden all the way over from his place, four miles away, to see the girl. It was a beautiful moonlight night, and together they paced the walks of the rose garden and leaned over the bushes freighted with gorgeous blossoms.

"The rose has always been my favorite flower," said the man, sentimentally, "but if you were to give me one I should keep it forever and forever as a memento of an American beauty I once—esteemed."

The girl was not sentimental. "If you would really care for them, I will give you a whole bunch," she said, "perhaps your sister would like to have some to decorate the table for the dinner party she is giving tomorrow."

"My sister will never lay a finger on any flower you give me," said the young man, still sentimentally.

The girl smiled, but she cut a large bunch of pink buds and full-grown red blossoms and tied them about to hold them together more securely with a bit of ribbon from her gown, and gave them to the man just as he was riding away on his black charger.

He received them with enthusiasm, vowed they should never be touched by anyone but himself, should be pressed and preserved—and rode away.

The next morning the girl went out with some friends to take a walk. They closed the road along which the man had ridden the night before, and there, half a mile from the house, lying by the roadside, was a bunch of withered roses and buds tied with a pale blue ribbon. The girl recognized them and smiled to herself.

She took the faded bouquet home with her for future use, and the next time the man came to see her and grew sentimental she produced it, confronted him with his villainy, and watched to see him overcome with his embarrassment. But did the hardened villain turn a hair? Not he! Instead he took the flowers from her and looked mournful that he should have been unjustly suspected of having thrown away a treasured memento.

"Tell you how it was," said he, "as I rode along they were blown from my hand, and, though I rode back and forth over that road almost all night searching for them, I could not detect them in the dark."

And the girl was so pleased with his inventive powers and self-possession that she let him hold her hand.

The Professor.

The professor, who was waiting for a train and did not like to let the time go to waste, stepped on the platform of a weighing machine and dropped the necessary small coin into the slot.

The machine kept the penny, but refused to take any further action.

"Well," muttered the professor, "besides being an innocent bystander I seem to be an outcast bystander."

There was a subdued rattle, as if something had broken in the machine, but the indicator didn't move.

Not a Favorable Errand.

"Ever see the lovely Miss Summers?"

"Yes, I called there one afternoon."

"Eh! Made a favorable impression?"

"I'm afraid not. I called to inspect their gas meter."

Evidence.

She—What made the magistrate think Mr. Hickson was intoxicated?

He—He stopped his motor car at a drinking trough for horses.

A Stronger Word.

"But, really, now," asked Miss Gush, "don't you think Mr. Kidder has a delicate wit?"

"It's more than delicate," replied Mr. Chellus, "it's sickly."

Senator McCleary spoke here Monday to a good crowd at the Court-house. The Senator undertook to answer Governor Beckham's charges. His speech was like unto his opening address, failing to commit himself on the question of saloons or no saloons in Kentucky and on the enforcement of the Sunday laws. On these questions the Senator must be pronounced, for the people are demanding it.

The Senator has many friends here and his speech was listened to with much interest.

LOCAL OPTION

Election Under Each Petition Granted.

Monday, appeared before his Honor, Judge A. A. Hazelrigg, two petitioners, one representing the saloon interests of Mt. Sterling, the other and anti-saloon interests, each asking that the sense of the voters be expressed on the 19th of September; the saloons asking that the vote be taken by precincts and the Anti-saloon by the city as a whole to decide whether saloons shall exist in Mt. Sterling or not.

In granting the requests of the petitioners Judge Hazelrigg substantially decided against the constitutionality of the Cammack County Unit Law, and this action was based on the following citation from the Constitution, Section 61: "The General Assembly shall by general law, provide a means whereby a sense of the people of any county, city, town, district or precinct may be taken, as to whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be sold, bartered or loaned therein or the sale thereof be regulated." The Judge in this decision in the case of Early & vs. Bains & says:

"By this provision a varying unit of territory wherein the question may be decided for themselves by the people, is provided. This unit may be the whole county; it may be the whole of a city or town, or it may be a single precinct. The legislature, in compliance with the mandate of the Constitution, enacted section 2354, Kentucky Statutes. By that section, upon a petition signed by a number of legal voters equal to 25 per cent. of the vote cast in the territory proposed to be affected, at the last preceding general election, it is made the duty of the county court to order an election within the territory specified in the petition. The citizens who are legal voters in the territory alone can take the initiative in the matter, and they determine the extent of territory or unit to be effected by the proposition, that is, whether it shall be a whole county, a whole city or town, or merely one or more precincts of the county, or city. This follows the requirement of the Constitution, which gives the right to the city or town as a whole, to allow or prohibit the liquor traffic within its limits. In view of the language of section 61 of the Constitution, it is not permitted to the legislature to deny a town or city the right to vote on this subject as a whole. Nor has the legislature attempted to deny or abridge the right. We are speaking of the condition where the town petitions for an election, no precinct having previously taken other action in the matter."

The Advocate acknowledges receipt of a complimentary to the Ewing Fair, for three days, Aug. 30th, 31st and Sept. 1st. Mr. C. M. Williams is President and Mr. S. H. Price, Secretary.
